

Prepositions

About a quarter past life,
Above the stars,
Across the sea,
After dissolution.

Against the world.
Along the side of time.

Amid the screams
Among the crowd.

At every point
Atop the mountains --

I wait for you...

Before the end,
Behind the walls,
Below the surface
Beneath my mind.

Beside your heart,
Between your universe and mine,
Beyond them both,
But united as one.

By the power --

I search for you...

Concerning your spirit
Down a lonesome road
During a storm of emotion,
Except that my fears are behind me.

For eternity,
From happiness,
In this lifetime.

Inside myself,
Into you.

Like you somehow,
Near the edge
Of many situations,
Off the cliff I fall.

On my own,
Onto the ground,
Out of perspective.

Outside of my soul,
Over the earth,
Past the moon,
Regarding the galaxy
Since the beginning of evolution.

Through the years,
Throughout the pain --

To you...

Toward fulfillment.

Under the covers,
Underneath reality.

Until I reach you,
Up so high
With little sense of hope
Within my understanding.

Without you --

I stand alone.
